Re: Over 2100 Attorneys Urge Postponement of Supreme Court Nomination Process Until the Presidential Election Has Been Decided and the Next President Inaugurated on January 20, 2021

Dear Senator:

We, the undersigned attorneys from across the legal profession urge the Senate to postpone consideration of the next United States Supreme Court nominee until after the federal elections now in process have been decided, the new Senate seated, and the President inaugurated on January 20, 2021. As members of the private bar, we expect and rely upon the Senate to apply its constitutionally-mandated advice and consent role consistently and the legitimacy of our courts in upholding the rule of law.

The passing of Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg is a tremendous loss for our country as she valiantly fought for equal protection under law for all throughout her career. The court vacancy created by her death comes at a time when absentee and early voting are already underway in this year's presidential and senatorial elections. In this unprecedented circumstance, we believe it is highly inappropriate for a Supreme Court nominee to be confirmed until after the elections have been decided, the new Senate seated, and the next President inaugurated. Never before in our country's history has a Supreme Court nominee been confirmed while a presidential election was already underway.¹ When a Supreme Court vacancy occurred near the end of President Abraham Lincoln's first term following the death of Chief Justice Roger B. Taney in 1864, he waited until after he was re-elected to nominate Salmon Chase.²

In 2016, when the Senate was faced with a nomination of a new Justice in a presidential election year following the death of Associate Justice Antonin Scalia that February, the Senate Majority Leader immediately refused to allow a hearing or a vote before President Barack Obama even nominated Judge Merrick Garland. While there is precedent for the consideration and confirmation of nominees by the Senate more than six months before the election, which would have made prompt consideration of Judge Garland's nomination appropriate, proceeding with the nomination process while the election is underway and its conclusion only six weeks away would unduly politicize the selection of a new Associate Justice and risk lasting damage to the confidence of the American people in the Supreme Court, the Senate's constitutionally-mandated advice and consent role, and thus to our democracy.

It is imperative to members of the bar and all who call America home that we apply rules and processes with consistency. Surely, if the Senate believed that consideration of President Obama's nominee was inappropriate nine months before the election, then the Senate must consider President Trump's expected nomination even less so, as it comes less than 40 days before election day. As voters continue to head to the polls and cast their ballots over this short period of time, they will decide both who will be the next President and the composition of a new Senate. The voters must be allowed to determine the persons who will nominate and confirm our next Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

Thank you for your consideration of our position.

Respectfully,³

Kristen Clarke, President & Executive Director
